

Inclusive Truth

Nick, this is Yeshua, Jeshua if you prefer. It is sometimes – well sometimes I slip. Sometimes I refer to you as Paul because it is the role of Paul, the continuation of the mission that Paul accepted, that is expressing itself today.

Just as I have changed and grown and learned in the past 2000 years, so have you. This growth, this spiritual maturing in no way interferes with the core message that I brought to Earth 2000 years ago. And this growth does not interfere with the message that you spread across civilization 2000 years ago. Now, however, you and I are working together, you and your soul, your supporters and their souls and I – we are all working together to bring back, to restore, to resurrect the truths that were distributed to humanity 2000 years ago in terms that humanity of 2000 years ago could understand.

The task, difficult in and of itself, has an added dimension that I would like you and your supporters also to understand as you go forth with love and Christ Consciousness in your hearts, and meet and work with and inspire those who can, from within the institution, make these changes. That added dimension is that not only must the original core truths be freed, but you have the added task of bringing the language and the essence of those core truths into the language that humanity today can relate to and can understand.

In your heart you know – and this I would say to Nick and you who support him – messages, parables, illustrations, examples that I presented were designed, carefully constructed and presented in the language and context of the civilization.

As Paul and many of you who worked with him – don't think you who are supporting him now, this is the first time you have worked with this beautiful soul that is Nick. It is not the first time. So you know as well as he knows that you presented these truths in the context of the civilization of the time. And you shaped the message, not the essence, simply the wrapping so that the wrapping would be accessible to those to whom you presented the message.

So as you free the original truths, I'm sure you are aware that those original truths, the original words are not words that would necessarily resonate today in today's culture. The essence will resonate. The presentation, the wrapping, the hook if you will, this you can work with your allies, the historians for they will know the ancient context and you can become historians yourselves, of sorts.

Meaning: (amused) I don't think I'm going to send you all back and ask you to get the kind of anthropological, historical, theological degrees that some of your allies will be able to present.

No, we will trust your soul thru your heart. That will be sufficient so that as these writings come forth your heart resonates with the accurate translations of the original writings and you view with compassion and understanding, based in the culture of the times, those events that distorted what was only meant to raise, to raise the consciousness of humanity. (“The essence” “the core message” that is the same thing in my view.) These core messages will be there and I would ask you to understand that the initial wrapping of that core message is in the culture of the times. I'm sure you understand that.

Work together thru your soul connection, thru the heart connection that draws you together now and do not let yourselves be caught in the trap that existed 2000 years ago. Once I was gone, once I had ascended, once I was no longer there to interpret the message, there were debates. There were debates. "He meant this." "No, he meant that." "No, he meant the third thing."

I would ask you when that time comes to look at the core message and this time, this time thru your hearts, thru connections with your own soul, be prepared to work together to establish a presentation that will speak to today's audience. And when it comes to he meant this or he meant that or he meant the other thing, when that time comes, we will work together: you and I. But we will work together at the spiritual level so the essence comes thru each of you from a spiritual level, and that you can come together and work together and listen to one another and explore the core message.

Now I have said earlier to you that the church is inclusive, that you need not all believe the same thing. And I mean that.

If you listen to your hearts, the soul will speak thru your heart, the soul will speak thru the Christ Consciousness and at the spiritual level your souls are all agreed. And you will understand that core message. And that core will be the same. What springs from this core in individual . . . I would call it manifestation and application and belief, here allow the tolerance that acknowledges each manifestation may be different, rather than to say as was said – and Nick from his memory can confirm this – "He meant this!" "He meant that!" "No, he meant the other thing! We cannot say that to the people!"

Do not allow yourselves to fall into that trap, but be inclusive and reframe the truths: "This message could mean this . . . and it could mean that."

Understand how it could mean either, and how each of these interpretations – or the third or the fourth or the fifth – will resonate with different people. And allow them each their own path to the truth at the core.

Now I realize, on top of everything else you are doing, this is indeed challenging. But it is inclusive and I said to you earlier that one of the purposes of evolving the church, not dissolving the church, is to create an inclusive institution where it is not necessary that everyone believe exactly the same thing.

So under Nick's guidance and leadership and your own internal guidance, you are building bridges. And once those bridges are built – the first one, only the first one, but I have been thru that – once that bridge is built, then the core truths must be allowed to breathe. Allowed to breathe in such a way that a multitude can relate to the same truth, each in his or her own way, each on his or her own path, each with his or her own resonance that all stems from the same core truth that radiates out in all these different varieties, each true in its own way, each true for its own recipient, and each manifesting the Divine on Earth as those who practice that truth grow spiritually and respect one another. The core truths, when applied, do no harm, but they will not always be applied in exactly the same way.

That is what I wish to say to you today. And I realize this may be jumping way ahead of where you are now, but I would present a vision, a vision that builds on your first successes. Notice that I said plural. For you will have successes. There will be more than one and there will be cause for celebration along the way as that bridge is built.

I thank you all. And I would offer my blessings upon you all for the work you are doing, the critical work you are doing, salvaging the institution of the church and freeing the truth of my teachings.

Jeshua
